Tutoring Experience

Over 17 years, I have worked extensively with students preparing for the SAT and ACT, building their confidence and test-taking abilities. My background in mathematics and statistics from Oxford and UCL enables me to provide deep insights into the logic and problem-solving skills necessary for success in these exams.

Alongside admissions test prep, I have tutored A-Level and GCSE Maths students across a variety of exam boards. With a practical, result-driven approach, I guide students in mastering challenging concepts like calculus, algebra, and statistics, focusing on strategies to maximize their scores.

Having seen numerous students successfully admitted to top US and UK universities, I take pride in offering tailored support for admissions, giving students the tools they need to excel.
